Parliamentary Elections (Amendment) Bill: An amendment to reduce the number of members of the House to sixty was beyond the scope of the bill, 3529.

Sedition Bill: It was within the discretion of the Chairman to accept or reject a motion that he leave the chair and report progress, and being of opinion that a motion to this effect moved by the leader of the Opposition would not promote the conduct of business, but cause obstruction, the Chairman would not accept it, 2063.

Supply: It was not competent for a member discussing the estimates to deal with any matter involving legislation, or the necessity for legislation, 1466; it did not follow that because the Public Service Board to a certain extent controlled the officers of all departments it was competent for a member, when the estimates of the Board were under discussion, to deal with all the grievances of all the officers of all the departments, 1507; there was no rule that Ministers must be continually in the Chamber while estimates were being discussed, and a member was not entitled to continually comment on the absence of Ministers, 1533; a member who, owing to irrelevance, had been ordered to discontinue his speech, had no further right to address the Committee until the question had been disposed of, 1610; a member was entitled to give a few cases to illustrate some point he wished to make in connection with the railway administration, but not to go into all the details of all the cases with which he was conversant, 1647.

ASSEMBLY (continued):SPEAKER, MR. (JOHN JACOB COHEN, THE HON.), RULINGS AND OPINIONS OF:

Address by Acting Prime Minister: A motion put with concurrence ought not to be debated, 221.

Adjournment: A member could not, on the motion for the adjournment of the House, discuss a matter that might be discussed on the address in reply; there could not be a double discussion on the same matter, 207; a member was not entitled to read a statement by anyone outside of the House, 666. A motion to discuss the necessity of bringing State servants under Commonwealth taxation was out of order owing to notice having been given of intention to introduce a bill to effect this purpose, 867; where the estimates had been tabled, matters which could be discussed under them could not be the subjects of motions for adjournment, 902, 930. An adjournment motion to discuss the necessity for the utilisation of all suitable ships on our coasts for the carriage of wheat and other foodstuffs to America was entirely different from a motion of which notice had been given that the Federal authorities should be asked to consult the State Government before further reducing the coastal shipping services, 545. An adjournment motion to discuss the disrating of certain engine-drivers was out of order, as the question could be discussed on the estimates, 1047. A motion of adjournment to discuss the further increase of railway fares and freights was out of order, seeing that the discussion might take place on a notice of motion, 2555; it was equally out of order to discuss the matter on the ordinary motion for the adjournment of the House, 2578; (see "Dissent," 2650; also "Anticipatory Motions," obs., 3197). One of our late Speakers had ruled that the question of urgency was one for the Speaker to decide, but the House dissented, and ever since five members rising in their places had been held to decide the question of urgency; a motion of adjournment must be restricted to a single matter of recent occurrence, 3658. A motion of adjournment to discuss discontent in the railway and tramway service anticipated discussion on a notice of motion on the business-paper, and was out of order, 3726.

Anticipatory Motions: Obs., 3197.

Ashtonfields Coal-mines Railway Bill: Standing order 246 dealing with bills relating to trade or the alteration of the laws concerning trade referred only to public bills. This was a private bill which had originated in the Legislative Council, presumably in a proper manner, 3741.

Business of the House: Mr. Speaker would not leave the chair unless it were agreeable to the leader of the Opposition as well as to the Minister in charge; he could not abrogate the sessional order, 2759.

Charges against a Member (J. J. G. McGirr): On a motion of urgency, the merits of the case could not be discussed, 397; the member whose conduct was involved could, on the motion for the appointment of a royal commission, show why the commissioner should not be appointed, but he must not reflect upon or abuse any member; it was not a matter of personal explanation, 404.

Closer Settlement (Amendment) Bill: A member could not read a document which was not a public document—which had not been laid on the table, 2624.

Dissent: The conduct of the representative of the King could not be called into question or mentioned by way of a question which might end by a reflection, 646; obs., on ruling re motion of adjournment to discuss increased railway fares and freights, 2650.

Fern, C. S., Death of: Obs., 22.

Hansard Reports: Mr. Speaker was not aware that Hansard was biased; he believed it endeavoured to give a true report, 109.

I.W.W. Prisoners: On a motion of urgency, the merits of the case could not be discussed, 602.

Marrickville, Member for: Mr. Speaker was not in his position as a judge of good taste; a member must not be offensive in making an explanation, 1042.

McGarvie Smith Vaccine Institute: The leader of the Opposition was not entitled to address the House on a reply by the Premier to a question asked on the previous evening, 2554.

Members' Sons, Death of: Obs., 1214.

Miller, G. T. C., Death of: Obs., 2243.

Mining (Amendment) Bill: On the second reading only the principles of the bill could be discussed; a member could not go into every clause in detail, 3089; when the mover of a motion for the third reading rose for the second time, he rose to speak in reply. It was unusual for a Minister to rise in reply to questions and for another member to subsequently rise and ask further questions prior to the Minister's speech in reply, 3157.

ASSEMBLY (continued):SPEAKER, MR., RULINGS AND OPINIONS OF (ctd.):

Notice of Motion: A member could not do what was irregular under cover of a notice of motion, 867.

Parliamentary Elections (Amendment) Bill: A bill which had been introduced in Committee could at any time be brought up and read a first time—the first reading was a formal motion and there could be no discussion on it, 3197.

Parliamentary Liquor Bar: Obs., 1965.

Payments to Sir William Cullen: The merits of the matter could not be discussed on a motion of urgency, 2268.

Police Inquiry Bill: It was not competent to amend a motion for the suspension of the standing orders by widening the order of leave, 726-729.

Poor Persons Legal Remedies Bill: The bill was perfectly in order; it did not affect trade or the rules of trade, and did not come within the scope of standing order 246, 2286.

Questions: A member could not ask a series of questions or make a speech under the guise of a question, 29, 64; no question could be put which brought the name of the Sovereign or the influence of the Crown directly before Parliament, or which cast reflections on the Sovereign, 391, 544; his Excellency's name could not be brought into a question concerning the Governor, 543. (See also "Dissent.") Questions addressed to Ministers should relate to the public affairs with which they are officially connected, and the bringing in of names of outside individuals for some purpose having no relation to public affairs was to be deprecated, 218, 1290. Questions should not be asked relating to questions that are sub judice, 897. A question regarding the Labour party's ballot on reinforcements did not come within the category of questions that ought to be asked, 1210; within the lines laid down in "May," an explanation could be sought from Ministers regarding the intentions of the Government, but not an expression of opinion on matters of policy; it was irregular to ask questions which had already been placed on the business-paper, 1290. A member could not ask for a legal opinion of a Minister, 2260.

Sedition Bill: There was nothing in the motion for leave to introduce the bill to show that there was going to be any expenditure of public money or any charge on the revenue, and therefore the motion was not out of order on the ground that the bill must be introduced in Committee of the Whole, 984.

12 June to 11 December, 1918.

ASSEMBLY (continued):SPEAKER, Mr., RULINGS AND OPINIONS OF (ctd.):

Smoking in Chamber: Mr. Speaker had no intention of introducing the practice of smoking by members in the Chamber, 28.

State Governor, Abolition of: It was not permissible to reflect on the Governor, 851, 852, nor to comment on the actions of State Governors, 853.

Sympathy with Mr. Speaker: Obs., 1557.

Trade-unions Re-registration Bill: The name of the Governor-General could not be brought into the debate, 339; a member could not make a second-reading speech on the motion for the adoption of the report, 519, 520.

STANDING ORDERS:

Committee's Report, 1208.

Referred to Standing Orders Committee, 654.

Suspended, 2090.

TEMPORARY CHAIRMAN (PERCY BREERETON COLQUHOUN, ESQUIRE), RULINGS AND OPINIONS OF:

Income-tax Bill: An amendment to increase the amount of the tax recommended in the message could not be accepted, 2203.
